COLLINS GETS DRAW WITH SULLIVAN

Lightweights Box Twenty Fast Rounds Before Large Crowd.

SULLIVAN SHOWS CLASS AGAINST "BRUTE" STRENGTH

Mayor Glasmann Sits at Ring-side and Enjoys Boxing Contest.

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Jan. 7.—Pete Sullivan of Salt Lake and "Birdleg" Collins of Denver fought twenty interesting rounds at the Ogden theater tonight, and at the conclusion of the battle Referee Tom Painter declared the bout a draw and the decision was well received by over 2500 fans.

It was science against brute strength and an ability to assimilate punishment. Throughout the twenty rounds Sullivan clearly outboxed his colored opponent, but his blows seemed to have little effect on Collins, who smiled continually in a happy sort of way and came back for more. Both men were in perfect condition and at the end of the fight neither was in apparent distress. In fact, the fastest milling took place in the three final rounds, when the men stood shoulder to shoulder at times and fought with head-racking wallops. Sullivan is a two-handed fighter and fought the crowd to its feet time after time by his clever blocking and fast infighting, but his punches lacked steam and at no time during the contest was his colored opponent in danger of taking the count. Collins depended principally upon his straight left, which he landed frequently in Sullivan's mid-ribs. Only occasionally did he use his right hand, except for a block, but when he did let go he rocked the Salt Lake boy's head with wicked crosses.

All Sullivan.

The first four rounds were all in Sullivan's favor. He outboxed his rival easily and scored repeatedly with a damaging right uppercut. The sixth and seventh rounds were even, the colored man having apparently warmed up. Sullivan's leg practically gave out in the eighth round, and he was considerably punished about the head. Collins came back strong in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth, however, but his blows had little effect.

Collins made his best showing in the thirteenth round. A series of lefts to the stomach and rights to the head nudged Sullivan for a time, and the Salt Lake boy was on the defense for the first time, seeming to be content to let his colored opponent do all the work. Collins appeared tired when the going soured.

In the fourteenth round Sullivan came back fresh and started a lightning clip. He had the lead in the fourteenth and fifteenth, but slackened speed again in the sixteenth. The seventeenth was Sullivan's round by a slight margin, while the eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth were practically even. There was plenty of mixing in the three final rounds, but little damage was done. There was not a knockdown during the entire fight. It was essentially a boxing match from start to finish.

At the conclusion of the contest, Mayor William Glasmann was asked what he thought of the bout. "Wasn't it great," exclaimed Ogden's executive, as he left the ring-side.

"Peacocks" Sinclair and Young Murphy boxed a six-round draw. Jack Downer and Earn Wright also boxed a six-round draw. The two preliminaries were refereed by Hardy Downing.

SULLIVAN TOO MUCH CLASS FOR COLLINS

BREAKS ALL WORLD'S AEROPLANE RECORDS

Latham Ascends to a Height Estimated at One Thousand Meters.

LAURELTON, France, Jan. 7.—During a four-minute spectacular flight today, Hubert Latham, the French aviator, attained an altitude unofficially estimated at 1000 meters (about 3200 feet).

The official record for altitude attained in an aeroplane is held by Latham, although, owing to the difficulty in measuring flights, there is a discrepancy as to the exact height reached by him. Latham is variously credited with an elevation of 3000 meters (about 10000 feet) and 3500 meters (about 11500 feet).

Orville Wright, in an unofficial flight at Potomac, Maryland, October 2, 1909, reached an estimated height of 1000 feet. In the following month, Louis Paulhan, in a Farman biplane, attained a height which he believed to be 600 meters, or nearly 2000 feet, but the flight was not officially recorded. Latham's record was made at Mouriemelon on December 1 last, and was recognized by the Aero Club of France.

An Up-to-Date Flying Machine

COUNCILLOR ALBERT PARKINSON AND HIS BLERIOT MONOPLANE.

MANHATTAN CLUB

Manager Downing of the Manhattan club has arranged one of the best cards of the season for the club smoker next Monday evening. A feature of the card will be the many light games scheduled in which last men will appear.

Young Forbes and Mickey Sullivan will box for the second time. These boys are scientific and the club members like to see them mix.

Easy Willie (colored) will take on Young Hanlon, a new amateur boxer that has shown up good in the symphony and he is expected to be extra good to get away with Willie.

Cyclone Lefty, who has been practicing Ketcher's shift, will meet Young Sharkey, who claims that he is as good as the weight as the heavyweight of that name ever was in boxing.

Dutch Mauley will box four rounds with Young Kim.

Sluggo Gallagher, the boy with the "sluggo" hammer punch, will take on Jack Downer. Gallagher is anxious to make a reputation, but he has already won the favor of the club members by his showing of last week.
